THE BRITISH SOLDIER
by "MONTY"

"I have seen him triumph over dangers and the discomforts of living; I have seen him in the great heat of the desert and the terrific cold of the desert—and there is nothing colder than the desert of North Africa on a winter's night. I have seen him fighting the Germans in the very cold, the snow and the ice, and I have seen him triumph over the whole thing and get on with the job. He is a very wonderful man."

Dear Harry,

I have just received your note together with your Postal Order for $1.50 to cover Admission Ticket, and regret very much your inability to attend the Banquet this evening. I will see that your Ticket is made good use of by handing same to some needy Red Chevron.

Sorry to learn you are still under the weather owing to that accident of yours, but hope it will not be long before you are back to normal health. Some of the Committee will be asked to call upon you as soon as the festivities are over. I know you will be interested in our Programme, so I am enclosing you a copy.

Many thanks for your Greetings and hoping to see you very soon.

Yours very sincerely,

Danny
